

SAGITTARIUS PERSONALITY PROFILE

Sagittarius is the ninth sign of the astrological year, ruled by Jupiter and is known by its astrological symbol, the Archer. Key phrase: 'I see' is Sagittarius.

Sagittarian individuals are freedom-loving, carefree and sincere with a positive outlook on life. With Jupiter as the ruling planet, people born under this sign are considered to be understanding and principled and full of enterprise.

Eager to experience as much as possible, they are restless and independent and prize their freedom above all else. They have an appetite for learning and travel and always seem to be in the right place at the right time.

Sagittarians are lucky by nature, so they usually display a cheerful and optimistic disposition and once they learn to understand the difference between trusting their luck and pushing their luck, nothing on earth can stop them.

They aren't happy unless they are fighting for a cause, it doesn't really matter what the cause is (it's much better if it's your own!) but whether it's a crusade against whale hunting or demanding a water urn for the office, they will approach it with self righteous zeal. They are always at the centre of a debate, and will be the person to say exactly what they think, if a little tactlessly.

They are strong-willed and good at organizing, a combination that gives them the ability to bring any project to a successful fruition but they are all about gaining the advantage and will switch loyalties readily if they see that they can get ahead by doing so. They make really sore losers and will even accuse others of foul play if things don't go their way. They seem to enjoy verbal duels with others and will not hesitate to give unsolicited advice and have a tendency to moralize and preach about what everyone "should" be doing.

Irrespective, they are among the most likeable people of the zodiac as well as the most straightforward and honest even if they are blunt. Unfortunately their tactlessness and boastfulness will upset others and you certainly have a knack for confrontation.

Sagittarius is not a diplomatic sign and Sagittarius likes to tell people more than they may want to know, or are ready to hear.

Everything about them is exaggerated and honesty can mean saying something along the lines of Sagittarian Winston Churchill's exchange with Elizabeth Braddock MP (who was rather unattractive) "Winston, you are drunk" to which Churchill responded, "and you, Madam, are ugly but in the morning, I shall be sober".

Because Sagittarians suffer from a mild superiority complex they can't resist being a tad sarcastic and in truth they don't think too much of many people. Ironically they are thin-skinned and too easily hurt by the thoughtless remarks or actions of others. There are no hidden secrets to a Sagittarius and what you see is what you get. Creative, clever, straightforward, congenial - all these traits describe them.

They can fly higher than any other sign of the zodiac but are not always good at seeing what's underneath their feet and lesser mortals can be trodden underfoot as they trample their way through the world.

One of their biggest problems is that they can be faithful to two people at once, but this is more a case of being faithful to a cause or a personal stance rather than say two women or two men as they are honorable and trustworthy with a passion for justice.

Sag's inherent curiosity keeps them more interested in what will happen tomorrow rather than concentrate on the faux pas they made today and a state of constant change is a delight for them. Sagittarians are extremely independent and truly free spirits and yet can be the nicest of all the zodiac signs. Mostly good tempered, in a hostile environment they will explode with anger if pushed too far, but will forget their angst just as quickly.

Sagittarius avoids emotional intensity and will look for a partner who stimulates them and is affectionate but has a life of his or her own. In a relationship it's important for them to have their space.

They like the romance of the chase when younger but when they have learnt to slow down and stay linked to a more mundane lifestyle they begin to grow emotionally (although some members of this sign refuse to grow up).

Sagittarius is not jealous or possessive because they would not want anyone else to be jealous or possessive of them and although are loners at heart who detest routine of any kind, they don't like to be alone.

Since the Archer is a Centaur, part man, part horse, there is also a connection between them and horses; be it a love of horse riding, horse racing, polo etc. Also because of the half man/half horse build, they are the clumsiest zodiac sign alive dropping the good china when washing the dishes, or feeding their fingers into the saw.

Sagittarians are the quickest learners amongst all the other sun signs so they make excellent employees but the speed of their undertakings can place uncomfortable demands on their co-workers. Whilst they expect absolute recognition and reward for all their hard work, they won't hesitate to highlight and expose the inadequacies of others.

Nonetheless they are the friendliest of all signs and kind to all, which will draw people to them. They also have a wonderful sense of humour, are great conversationalists and magnificent storytellers.

They are most compatible with Aries, Libra, Leo and another Sagittarius and should avoid Capricorn, Aquarius, Scorpio, Gemini, Pisces and Cancer.

Aries

This is a wonderfully romantic union and excellent in the bedroom. You will get on famously and you both love to socialize and generally have a lot in common.

The relationship between the two will be full of enthusiasm, passion and adventure as both exude an energetic enthusiasm for just about everything.

Whilst Aries has a strong will, they also look on the bright side of life like Sagittarius resulting in a light playfulness between them. This is quite an ideal combination and at its best is a match made in heaven.

Libra

This relationship should have a very special connection and it certainly is a harmonious one and can be heaven sent. It won't take long for them to really get to know and develop a deep understanding of one another. They will be enthralled with each other and will always feel "new".

Problems rarely occur but if they do, it's Libra being hurt occasionally by Sag's insensitivity and Libra being too emotionally demanding but both can easily forgive and forget and should smooth out any wrinkles that appear in the relationship.

Leo

It can work with a Leo and be a passionate and rewarding relationship so long as Leo provides Sagittarius with enough space and doesn't have too many fits of jealousy.

Sagittarius

Another Sagittarius is a union that will provide lots and lots of fun and excitement and neither will hardly stay still.
